F00-A. We are interested in your occupational history – your jobs – throughout the last twenty years, that is from mid-1993 until today. Did you have a paid job during that period, from mid-1993 until now? We mean only regular jobs – i.e., those that lasted at least 3 months each, and in which the hours of work were at least 15 per week. Please also take into account self-employment, farm work and all other regular jobs.

Let us start with the job that you had in July 1993 or – if you were not working at that time – the first job that you had after July 1, 1993.

INSTRUCTION A

Each regular employment or regular self-employment should be noted. Regarding each job, information needed to answer questions F0x-1 to F0x-9 should be gathered, then question F0x-10A or F0x-10B should be asked. Gathering information does not mean asking each question literally.

If R is still performing this job, in F0x-7 (the values of x range from 1 to 9), in the cell Year write 2013, and in the cell Month write 77.

If R ended a given job (or jobs) in 2013, and is not currently working, the job that ended most recently (based on the month the job ended) is treated as the present job..

Present CARD F01-F09 WORK SITUATION

Among the items listed on this card, we are interested only in regular employment or regular self-employment.

G. Present job

G01A. People often undertake various activities, such as helping out on a farm or a family business, or - at least for a while - various odd jobs. We are interested in any job - even those that lasted for only a few days at a time, provided that such job spells add up to at least one month per year. Do you currently have such a job or had one any time in 2013?

(1=yes) → INSTRUCTION C (0=no) → H01B, p. 29

INSTRUCTION C

For each current job performed by R, respective F0x tables should be completed in the same way as with the questions on occupational history.

Each job should be noted. Regarding each job, information needed to answer questions F0x-1 to F0x-9 should be gathered, then question F0x-10A or F0x-10B should be asked. Gathering information does not mean literally asking each question.

Job spells that occur repeatedly with the same employer or entail the same activities – with various employers or in self-employment – should be treated as a single irregular job, which we call an irregular cyclical job, and which should be reflected in F0x-1B. In such cases, in F0x-6, write the average weekly number of hours worked during a single (the most recent) job spell.

If R is still performing this job, in F0x-7 (the values of x range from 1 to 9), in the cell Year write 2013, and in the cell Month write 77.

If R ended a given job (or jobs) in 2013, and is not currently working, the job that ended most recently (based on the month the job ended) is treated as the present job. If R. ended two jobs in the same month of 2013, and is not working currently, the job with more hours of work per week is treated as the present job.

CARD F01-F09 WORK SITUATION → first unfilled TABLE F01

In the table below write the WORK SITUATION codes from the appropriate cells of F0x-1, starting with the jobs with the highest weekly number of work hours, and ending with jobs with the lowest number of hours (based on information from F0x-6).
